Tuscany with painters, sculptors and architects creating the masterpieces that now entice visitors into churches, museums and galleries across the region. Giotto, Brunelleschi, Leonardo, Michelangelo, Botticelli - these and dozens of equally famous names hailed from Tuscany. Corsica is for beach lovers. And culture buffs. It combines vast stretches of shoreline with the beauty of the mountains, plenty of activities for your body and some rich history to engage your mind. Sardinia's turquoise sea and white sandy beaches rival the tropics. Alghero, in Northern Sardinia, has a fascinating Catalan history. Cagliari is historic and cosmopolitan at the same time, while the equally historic Oristano is quietly elegant. The best times to visit all of them are in the spring and fall.
